About NLSIU

Mission and Vision

India's First National Law University Leading Legal Education Since 1986.

NLSIU was the first National Law University established in India in 1986. The premier law school was set up with a mission to pioneer legal education reforms and to anchor the transformation of the Indian legal system through research and policy interventions.

Consequently, NLSIU was among the first institutions in the country to introduce the five-year integrated undergraduate law degree, with the commencement of the first batch of the BA LLB (Hons) programme in 1988. For over 35 years, the University has irrefutably remained a leader in the field of legal education in the country. This long-standing record has been possible through strong collaborations between legal academics, the Bar, the Bench, and the State Government.

Over the years, NLSIU has evolved into a multi-disciplinary university in line with national and state education policies. The University introduced a Master of Laws Programme, a Master's Programme in Public Policy, and a 3-year LLB (Hons) professional postgraduate degree. In 2025, the University welcomed its first cohort of the BA (Hons) programme, developed using NLSIU's unique pedagogical philosophy that combines a rigorous academic curriculum with experiential learning and professional orientation.

Mission

To pioneer legal education reforms and transform the Indian legal system through innovation in teaching, research excellence, and meaningful policy interventions supported through strong institutional partnerships.

Vision

NLSIU envisions driving a paradigm shift in legal education by aligning academic excellence with social relevance and global best practices. Through research excellence, sustainable legal reforms, and the digitisation of academic and research resources, the University empowers scholars and students to address contemporary legal and policy challenges.

Why Study at NLSIU?

Outstanding Faculty

The University is home to a vibrant group of scholars in law, social sciences, and public policy, alongside leading practitioners who contribute through elective courses and workshops.

India's Premier National Law University

NLSIU is consistently recognised as the country's top law school and has been at the forefront of academic excellence, innovation, and policy-focused education.

Research Excellence

Through research centres, faculty-led projects, and interdisciplinary engagement, students are immersed in cutting-edge theoretical and applied research.

A Multidisciplinary Academic Environment

Students are trained in law, social sciences, public policy, and humanities through rigorous, practice-oriented programmes.

A Transformative Campus Experience

NLSIU's residential campus provides a culturally rich, diverse, and interactive environment that shapes academic, professional, and personal growth.

The NLSIU Way

Faculty

Students learn from faculty members who bring together deep academic expertise and professional experience. The University hosts full-time scholars across law and social sciences, supported by practitioners and visiting faculty who offer specialised electives.

NLSAT-International Exam

Format for BA (Hons), BA LLB (Hons), LLB (Hons), LLM, and MPP Programmes

Admissions tests for each of the above-mentioned programmes shall consist of a single question paper comprising two parts – Parts A and B. All candidates shall be required to attempt both parts of the question paper. The examination shall be for a duration of 150 minutes. All candidates must appear for the NLSAT-International online entrance examination on April 26, 2026.

Part A:

Part A of the NLSAT-International paper will consist of Multiple-Choice Questions, and shall be for a maximum of 75 marks. 0.25 marks shall be deducted for each wrong answer, and for each unanswered question. Part A will constitute the first stage of the admissions process. A rank list of candidates will be prepared based on their performance in Part A of the admissions test. To be eligible for evaluation of Part B of the paper, a candidate should have secured more than zero marks in Part A of the paper. From amongst these eligible candidates, Part B of the answer scripts will be evaluated in a ratio of 1:5 based on performance in Part A. That is, five candidates per seat available will qualify for evaluation of Part B of the examination.

Part B:

Part B shall consist of subjective questions, which shall be for a maximum of 75 marks.

Interview:

A fresh rank list shall be prepared based on the cumulative performance in Parts A and B. To be eligible for the interview, a candidate should have secured more than zero marks in Part B of the paper. Based on this rank list, candidates shall be invited for the interview in a ratio of 1: 3. That is, three candidates per seat available will qualify for evaluation of Part B of the examination. The interview will be for a maximum of 30 marks.

The final rank list shall be prepared by consolidating the marks scored in Part A, Part B and the interview. To be offered admission, candidates must secure a cumulative score (sum of Part A, Part B and the interview) of 70% or more.

NLSAT-International Exam

Format for (PhD) Programmes

Candidates shall submit the duly filled application form along with a research proposal of about 6–8 pages. The application form shall be available on the University website.

The research proposal must:

- Contain a tentative title
- Identify a research problem and discrete research questions
- Demonstrate background research and a thorough awareness
- Identify the methodological approach to respond adequately to these research questions.

Candidates who demonstrate a firm grasp of the foundational themes and methodological questions of the relevant discipline will be awarded higher marks. The research proposal must be prepared by the candidate without any external assistance or AI tools.

The admission test for the PhD programmes shall have only one part, which shall test the students on Research Aptitude and subject-matter expertise.

Candidates who secure more than 50% marks in the written test will qualify for evaluation of their Research Proposal. They will be invited to an interview, where they will make an oral presentation before the PhD Admissions Review Panel constituted for this purpose.

The final offer of admission shall be based on the assessment of the research proposal, interview and oral presentation by the PhD Admissions Review Panel.

To be offered admission, a candidate should have secured more than zero marks in the test and the research proposal.

Visiting Scholars Programme

The Visiting Scholars Programme at NLSIU welcomes exceptional international scholars and practitioners engaged in research across law and social sciences.

The programme extends to those holding a rank of different position such as Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor/Doctoral/Post Doctoral Candidate in their home university. The aim of the programme is to enable collaborative scholarship and promote a culture of knowledge sharing across disciplines. Visiting Scholars conduct their research in collaboration with or support of the NLSIU faculty members, and participate in the broader intellectual life at NLSIU.

Visiting Scholars are hosted as guests of NLSIU for a pre-defined duration i.e., from three months to a year. Scholars will not be entitled to remuneration/honorarium or housing during their visit. They will have access to University facilities (e.g. Library) and office space, subject to availability.

The Visiting Scholars Programme is anchored by the Office of the Dean Research. Applicants to the programme must be referred by a faculty member who is willing to act as an advisor to the proposed research.

It is the responsibility of a prospective Visiting Scholar to contact appropriate faculty members in advance to support their application.

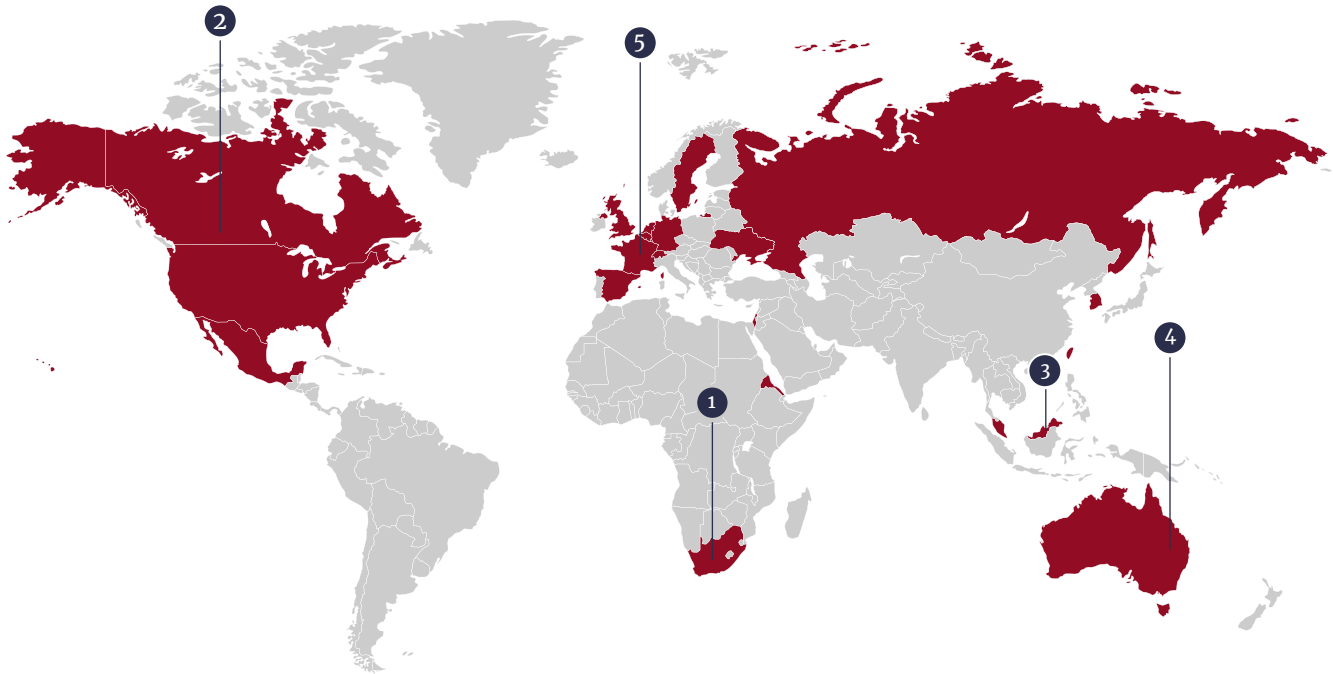

Douglas McDonald-Norman

“I am a PhD candidate at the University of New South Wales and was a Visiting Scholar at NLSIU from July to October 2024. The programme offered rich academic engagement through seminars, conferences, teaching interactions, and fieldwork across India. Returning to NLSIU was both professionally enriching and personally meaningful, and I am grateful for the support and collaborations received.”
