ADMISSION PROCESS

Candidates for the Ph.D. programme shall be selected through a two-stage selection process

- i. The first stage of the selection process shall be the admission test (NLSAT-PhD) that will test the research aptitude of the candidates and their subject-matter expertise. Only candidates securing not less than 50% marks in the written test will qualify for the second stage.
- ii. The second stage of the selection process consists of the evaluation of the Research Proposal submitted by the candidate and the Oral Presentation of the Research Proposal. Both components shall be of equal weightage (50% for the Research Proposal submitted by the candidate and 50% for the Oral Presentation of the Research Proposal).
- iii. The final selection of the candidates shall be based on the aggregate of the marks secured by the candidates for the Research Proposal and Oral Presentation of the Research Proposal.

Application

Candidates shall submit the application form duly filled up along with a research proposal of about 6-8 pages. The application form shall be available on the University website.

The research proposal must:

- i. Contain a Tentative Title,
- ii. Identify a research problem and discrete research questions,
- iii. Demonstrate background research and a thorough awareness and understanding of the relevant literature on the research problem,
- iv. Identify the methodological approach to respond adequately to these research questions.

Candidates who demonstrate a firm grasp of the foundational themes and methodological questions of the relevant discipline will be awarded higher marks.

The research proposal must be prepared by the candidate without any external assistance or assistance of AI tools.

Admission Test (NLSAT-PhD):

The National Law School Admissions Test-Ph.D. (NLSAT-Ph.D.) will be held on April 25, 2027 in specified centres across the country. The duration of the test shall be 150 minutes. The NLSAT-Ph.D. shall test the students on Research Aptitude and subject-matter expertise.

The dates for the oral presentation shall be announced after the completion of the NLSAT-Ph.D. They are likely to be held in May 2027. Classes for the coursework component of the Ph.D. programme shall commence at the University in July 2027.
